David Coleman, Federal Member for Banks, met today with the staff and board of Arab Council Australia and members of the Arabic media to discuss local community issues.

“It was great to meet with Arab Council Australia today,” Mr Coleman said.

“From its work with families and young people, to the broader community services they deliver, the Council is definitely making a positive difference in the community.

Mr Coleman discussed a range of issues in a Question-and-Answer style forum.

“I was happy to talk about many issues, ranging from immigration and border protection to the Australian economy and from education to industrial relations.
